CURRICULA VITAE

RICHMAN BANGILIZWE MQEKE

Richman Bangilizwe Mqeke was born on 16 November 1948 in Idutywa, Transkei. He completed his matriculation in 1970 at Jongilizwe College. In 1971 he registered for a B Juris degree at Fort Hare which he completed in 1973. From 1974 to 1976 he was employed in various posts at Magistrates' courts in Transkei. From 1977 to 1978 he was employed as a temporary junior lecturer in the Department of Private Law at Fort Hare. He completed his LLB at the end of 1978. In 1979 he was appointed as a lecturer in the Department of Private Law. In 1981 he was promoted to senior lecturer in the same Department. In 1982 he became Acting Head of a newly-created Department of African and Comparative Law. In July 1984 he was promoted to a full Professor in the same Department.

At the end of 1985 Professor Mqeke resigned from Fort Hare to take up a chair of Private and Customary Law at the University of Transkei. In 1986 he was awarded Master of Laws at Rhodes University. From 1987 to 1989 he was Dean of the Faculty of Law at the University of Transkei. In 1988 he visited the School of Oriental and African Studies of the University of London as a recipient of the Oppenheimer Memorial Trust Travelling grant.

Professor Mqeke also serves as Chairman of Transkei Broadcasting Corporation.

In his Doctoral dissertation, "CONSENSUS AND CONCILIATION IN THE TRADITIONAL LEGAL SYSTEM OF THE CAPE NGUNI", he has successfully established the central role of consensus and conciliation in legal relationships in primitive societies through a wide survey of such societies. The two elements were thereafter traced, extracted and commented upon in the various fields of Xhosa customary law. The effects of modernization, on consensus and conciliation, from the period of colonial government to the present day, were identified. The final chapter of the thesis presents a thoughtful analysis and prognosis of the future of a dual system of civil and customary law in a new South Africa.

TOBIAS JAN GODFRIED LOUW

Tobias Jan Godfried Louw was born on 23 August 1958 in Pretoria. He matriculated from the Oudtshoorn High School in 1976.

He obtained his BA degree in 1981. In 1982 he obtained a BA Honours in Philosophy, cum laude. The Master of Arts degree was awarded in 1984, cum laude. The title of his dissertation was: "THE POSITION OF THE STRUCTURAL METHOD IN THE HERMENEUTICS OF PAUL RICOEUR." All the degrees were obtained at the University of Stellenbosch.

In 1985 Mr Louw was appointed as junior lecturer in the Department of Philosophy at Fort Hare, and was promoted to lecturer with effect from 1987.

For his thesis, "LANGUAGE AND REALITY IN CONTEMPORARY THOUGHT", he investigated the contentious relationship between language and reality as it has been displayed throughout the history of philosophy, and paid special attention to the diverse approaches of the leading schools of contemporary Western thought. He advanced the thesis that the actual contingent nature of human experience is reflected in both the language of science (theory) and the language of morality (practice). The result of the investigation was that the fundamental expressions of human experience are recognized as being essentially paradoxical in character. As a consequence, the moral obligation may be said to rest on theories of language and reality alike to acknowledge their own critical limits, and enter into a dialogue with one another on the basis of mutual respect, good-will and temperance. One of the examiners described the thesis as an exciting and original contribution to the furthering of philosophical research in Southern Africa.

Mr Louw is the author of several papers and has been invited to submit contributions to well-known South African publications. He has also been invited to read a paper at an international conference on "Language Ecology in Africa", to be held in Namibia in September 1991.

PAULUS CESAER LUBOUT

Paulus Cesaer Lubout was born in Vanderbijlpark on 21 December 1958 and educated at Hoërskool Transvalia. He obtained the BSc Agric in 1981, the BSc Agric (Hons) in 1982 and the MSc Agric in 1988 at the University of Pretoria.

In November 1981 he joined the Department of Development Aid as Agricultural Adviser, leaving their employ in March 1987. In April 1987 he was appointed senior lecturer in the Department of Animal Health and Production at the Medical University of Southern Africa. On 1 January 1990 he was appointed as Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Agriculture at the University of Transkei.

Professor Lubout is the author of a number of publications, some of which have been presented at International Congresses.

The research for his doctoral thesis centers around an investigation of the genetic parameters and trends of indigenous beef cattle breeds, which are becoming increasingly important in the beef cattle industry of Southern Africa. Mixed model methodology was used to determine the genetic parameters and best linear unbiased predictions of breeding value of animals. With this research the promovendus has made a significant contribution towards the science of beef cattle breeding.

WIM VAN AVERBEKE

Wim van Averbeke was born at Oostende, Belgium on 24 December 1958. He matriculated at the Royal Atheneum Brugge, Belgium in 1976. He was awarded the degrees of Candidate and Licentiate in Science (Geography) in 1978 and 1980, respectively at the Science Faculty at the State University Gent, Belgium. In 1980 he entered the International Training Centre for postgraduate soil scientists at the same university to study for an MSc degree in soils science majoring in soil classification, soil formation and land evaluation. This degree was conferred on him in 1982. He was appointed as lecturer in the Department of Soil Science at the University of Fort Hare in 1983. In 1985 he joined the Ecotope Evaluation Project (Ardri) as a researcher, a position he held until 1989 when the project was completed. At present he is a senior lecturer in the Department of Soil Science at Fort Hare.

Mr van Averbeke's study of the interaction between plant population density and water use efficiency by maize constitutes a definite and substantial contribution to our knowledge of the subject. All examiners were unanimous in their opinion that the investigation was well conceived and excellently executed. By studying crop response under a much wider range of water levels and planting densities than hitherto the author has resolved existing controversies so effectively that one of the external examiners stated that there seems to be very little need for additional research on this topic in future.

Apart from an intensive field plot investigation under carefully controlled conditions conducted for four years the author conducted 63 other smaller experiments over a wide range of soil and climatic conditions in rural Ciskei. Although the study was intended to provide information specifically for the Ciskeian farmer the results of this investigation may well find application in the drier ecotopes in other parts of Southern Africa.

LETTER TO THE UNIVERSITY OF FORT HARE ADMINISTRATION, MEMBERS OF BOTH THE ACADEMIC AND NON-ACADEMIC STAFF, THE STUDENT BODY AS WELL AS THE REST OF THE CAMPUS COMMUNITY

Dear Friends, Colleagues, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Please accept my compliments to everyone of you and be assured that as your Chancellor, the affairs that govern the everyday life of the University as well as circumstances and developments shaping in and around its premises, pre-occupy my mind continuously. I have selected to address you collectively, in this fashion, after extensive consultations with several of your number about matters that my have affected the fabric of the campus life including the pace and magnitude of events impacting on it.

I write with the full knowledge that it could have served all of us better had we communicated much earlier. However, circumstances beyond our control prevented us from doing so. Even so I still hope and believe that it is pertinent that this brief missive reaches you.

Together in Excellence

As member of an institution which has written stirring chapters into the history of higher learning in the region and beyond, you have inherited a proud heritage indeed. Those before you, who passed through this centre, were in many instances, pious men and women who continuously strove to foster a positive communal spirit and to play their roles with integrity. They dreamt and worked for an equitable society where true leaders would be judged by their dedication to the needs of the people they served. Like them, we still believe as we do that there should be no misunderstanding or differences in our endeavours that could be regarded as beyond repair. And like them we believe that as members of the Fort Hare University we are truly privileged to serve the nation in our own unique way. This assignment does carry with it heavy responsibilities and duties which we must discharge to the best of our abilities. If we are to prevail in the noble mission of empowering our people with the knowledge and skills requisite for the emergent new society, we need to go about our work with intelligent courage.

To register positive results in our common quest, we must work together as a team - labour as a community united by a single-mindedness of purpose. The centrepiece of our effort should remain collectivism! That having been said, we cannot overlook the very fact that, at times differences might interrupt us. It is true that in the course of our work contradictions will emerge at unfortunate intervals. This in fact is a manifestation of the true dialectical course of development.

The hallmark of positive knowledge and forcefulness of example has always been the ability to provide wise counsel and to accept it when it is offered in return. This dictum should continue to serve as a lodestar in our deeds as well as our relations in our daily lives.

I now wish to point out that since my installation as Chancellor I have followed developments at our campus with more than keen interest. It has pleased me a great deal to observe that in the intervening period the University of Fort Hare has grown from strength to strength in the direction of a veritable people's institution. This continues to happen in spite of the hurdles we have referred to. We have not missed the new spirit that is reigning with increasing vigour in Alice and her environs. In this regard it is my pleasure to applaud the positive relations being forged between the student community and the administration. We have indeed negotiated a tricky hill and now we must conquer the mountain. It is now our moral task to consolidate and further strengthen this positive trend so that in time, it should become the hallmark of our university life.

The same measure of appreciation I extend over the rapprochement between the academic staff and our non-academic functionaries. Nothing is perhaps more beautiful than to witness a community being governed by a sense of belonging together because most of the problems that separate us are less important when compared with the issues which hold us together as we say: "IN YOUR LIGHT, LET US SEE LIGHT."

Once again be assured of my highest regard.

Sincerely

BIOGRAPHY OF

DR NELSON ROLIHLAHLA MANDELA, LL.D

Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela was born on 18 July 1918 at Qunu Location just outside of Umtata, to Nongaphi Nosekeni and Chief Henry Magadla Mandela. He grew up on the banks of the river Mbashe (Bashee) like a normal child groomed for chieftainship. When his father died in 1930 he came under the care of Acting Paramount Chief David Dalindyebo.

Dr Mandela was educated at the following Methodist schools: Clarkebury and Healdtown. He enrolled at the then University College of Fort Hare in 1939, where he met and established a life-long friendship with the present Chancellor of the University of Fort Hare, Dr O R Tambo. They came involved in student politics, as a result of which both were expelled in 1940. Dr Mandela, however, traces his political interest to the stories of the resistance of the African people against colonial dispossession, which were told by the tribal elders in his village. These heroic stories led him to commit himself to making whatever contribution he could to the liberation struggle.

University of Fort Hare
Together in Excellence

In 1941 Dr Mandela found himself employment as a policeman at Crown Mines in Johannesburg, where he met Walter Sisulu and established another enduring personal and political friendship.

On completing his degree at UNISA in 1941 he took legal articles in the firm of Witkin, Sidelsky and Eidelman, while studying towards an LLB at Wits University.

Together with Walter Sisulu, Oliver Tambo, Anton Lembede and others, Dr Mandela was instrumental in the founding of the ANC Youth League in 1944, which culminated in the adoption of the Youth League-sponsored Programme of Action in 1949. Since 1944 Dr Mandela has held the following positions in the ANC:

- 1948 National Secretary, African National Congress Youth League
- 1950 National President, African National Congress Youth League
- 1952 National Volunteer-in-Chief, Defiance Campaign
- 1952 Deputy President-General, African National Congress
- 1961 Honorary Secretary, All-In National Action Council
- 1990 Deputy President, African National Congress
- 1991 President, African National Congress

From September 1953, when a renewed banning order forced him to resign the Deputy Presidentship of the ANC, Dr Mandela was forced to operate increasingly clandestinely. He was influential in the formulation of the M-Plan (Mandela Plan) which anticipated the banning of the organisation and devised a survival and operational strategy. He was one of the individuals who made it possible for the ANC to adjust to the situation of illegality in the early sixties, as well as the formation of Umkhonto Wesizwe in 1961. He left South Africa in 1962 and underwent military training in Algeria after a tour of most independent African countries at the time.

Whilst serving a five-year sentence for leaving the country illegally he was joined to the Rivonia trialists and sentenced to life imprisonment in 1964.

Dr Mandela worked as a lawyer in Johannesburg and, with Dr Oliver R Tambo, established the first African legal partnership in South Africa in 1952. When the attorneys conducting the defence of the treason trial (1956-1961) withdrew as a result of the 1960 State of Emergency, Dr Mandela and his co-accused, Advocate Duma Nokwe, took over the defence. The accused were all acquitted in 1961. In October 1962, when Dr Mandela faced charges of leaving the country illegally and undergoing military training, he chose to conduct his own defence. He argued, in a famous statement, that as a black man in a white man's court he could not expect justice on the trial.

Dr Mandela spent a total of 27 years in various South African prisons. In the course of those 27 years his stature and suffering caught the attention of the world and he became the world's most famous political prisoner. He rejected an offer of conditional release from P W Botha in 1985. In 1986 Dr Mandela met with Senior Government officials with a view to procuring a meeting between the ANC and the Government. In 1988 he met with P W Botha and raised, particularly, the issue of the release of political prisoners. In 1989 he met with F W de Klerk to pursue the issue of the unbanning of the ANC and the release of political prisoners. Throughout this period he kept the ANC informed of developments and met with various deputations from the Mass Democratic Movement and other prominent South Africans.

Dr Mandela holds more than 60 honorary doctorates from leading universities all over the world (5 in South Africa), and has recently been installed as Chancellor of the University of the North. In addition he has been honoured by cities throughout the world as well as by human rights organisations; for these reasons, South Africa and the world are yet to benefit from his moral courage and vision.

CURRICULA VITAE

MANDAH KHUTHAZA MAZANTSANA (Neé RAMNCWANA),

MANDAH KHUTHAZA MAZANTSANA (Neé RAMNCWANA), was born at Peddie. She obtained a first class pass in J.C. She completed her H.P.T.C. at Butterworth College of Education in 1974. In 1975 she started teaching at Boknes Higher Primary School, Alexandria (RSA) where her mother was also teaching. In April the same year, she started teaching at Hamburg Higher Primary School in the Peddie District.

She completed her matric in 1978 privately and was appointed at Ndabazandile High School at Peddie. In 1981 she left for the University of Fort Hare, where she obtained all her degrees. She obtained her BA degree in 1983. In 1984 she started teaching at Nathaniel Pamla High School as the Head of Languages. Her B.Ed part-time was obtained in 1985. In 1986 she was appointed as a Deputy Principal at Thembalabantu High School in Zwelitsha and in March was transferred to Emfundweni High School at Peddie. She registered for D Ed part-time. At the beginning of 1991 she was transferred to the present post of principalship at July Junior Secondary School in the Peddie directorate.

The research for her thesis centred on adulthood as a comprehensive ultimate aim of education. One of the examiners described her thesis as representing a fresh perspective on the issue of adulthood as a didactical-pedagogical aim in both Ciskeian and broadly South African education.

Mandah is married to Douglas, a graduate teacher. They have two sons and two daughters.

HENDRIK HEYNS

Hendrik Heyns was born on 7 August 1927 in Burgersdorp. He obtained the B Sc Agric in 1952 and the M Sc Agric (cum laude) in 1958 at the University of Stellenbosch. In 1965 he was awarded a first doctorate by the University of the Orange Free State and in 1974 the University of Pretoria awarded him a second doctorate.

His professional career started in 1953 when he was appointed as lecturer/researcher at the Glen College of Agriculture. It was during this time that the first research projects at the Glen College of Agriculture were initiated. In 1960 he was appointed as lecturer at the University of the Orange Free State and later promoted to senior lecturer, associate professor and professor. He retired in 1989. Professor Heyns spent 1991 as a visiting professor at the University of Bophuthatswana.

During this period of almost 40 years, much time was devoted to investigating methods to increase beef cattle production. Research for his Masters as well as the two Doctorates centered around basic beef production principles and practices such as traits selection, visual appraisal, cross-breeding and performance testing, all of which has become common place among beef cattle producers throughout the country.

During his career he received various awards, inter alia Agriculturist of the year in 1984 as well as a Gold Medal in 1991 which was awarded by the South African Society for Animal Production, this being the Society's highest award.

The material in this doctoral thesis is presented in two parts: The first which bears the title: "Contributions to the Science of Increased Efficiency in Livestock Production", summarises the different aspects of research undertaken. The second part is composed of fifty selected publications, some of which were published in the USA, Europe and England. Approximately a third of the selected publications appeared in the so-called popular press, in a form which is much more informative than the scientific journals and therefore suitable for farmer use.

The examiners commented that Professor Heyns' research and extension contributions toward increased efficiency in beef cattle production over almost 40 years have led to the South African Beef cattle industry being placed on a much sounder basis.

Curriculum Vitae

Mashug Ally

Mashug Ally was born at Elsies River, Cape Town on 30 January 1951. Having matriculated at St. Columba's High School In 1968 he spent three years taking G.C.E. 'A' levels in natural sciences in London. During this time he developed an interest in philosophy which was pursued on his return to South Africa.

He obtained his BA degree at the University of Durban-Westville in 1976, the B.A. Honours degree at the University of Cape Town in 1977. The MA degree was obtained at the University of Durban-Westville in 1980, serving as a Graduate Assistant and then after qualifying as a Junior Lecturer until 1985. In 1985 the Higher Education Diploma was obtained at the University of South Africa. He taught English at Elsies River High School during 1986 and in 1987 was appointed lecturer in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Transkei. A bursary from the H.S.R.C. enabled him to carry out his research for the MA degree and a German Academic Exchange Service Scholarship gave him the opportunity to research philosophy at Ruhr University in 1986/87.

Mashug's thesis is a critical analysis of Jaspers' contribution to philosophy with regard to theory and practice. The conclusion being that Jaspers' concept of foundering through modalities of his negative dialectics is in itself a transcendental conception with practical implications for present conditions of life. It links with the Socratic notion of docta ignorantia and has practical connections between moral values of humility, moderation, justice, mutual understanding and tolerance (connected to Jaspers' concepts) and our existential situation. The importance of re-thinking these values within present conditions of life is borne out.

Mashug is married to Alice.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE ON HIS EXCELLENCY ROBERT MUGABE, FIRST EXECUTIVE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF ZIMBABWE

The President of the Republic of Zimbabwe, Robert Gabriel Mugabe, was born on the 21st of February, 1924 at Kutama Mission in the Zvimba Area, North-west of Harare. He received his primary education at Kutama Mission and qualified thereafter as a primary school teacher. Mr Mugabe taught at various schools throughout the country between 1942 and 1949, while at the same time pursuing his studies. He was, in 1950, able to enter university with credits already acquired by correspondence towards his BA degree.

He was admitted to the University College of Fort Hare, then associated with Rhodes University, where he finally completed the BA degree in 1951 before, once again, resuming his teaching career in the then Southern Rhodesia. It was in this year that he completed his post-graduate University Education Diploma by external study. Thereafter, and whilst teaching in Zimbabwe, he completed his Bachelor of Education degree in 1954 with the University of South Africa.

In 1955 he secured a post at the Chalimba Teacher Training College in Zambia, then Northern Rhodesia, and remained there until June 1958.

During his sojourn in Zambia as a teacher, he continued with his studies and passed the B.Sc (Economics) degree with the University of London in 1958.

The independence of Ghana in 1957 lured him to that country in June 1958. He taught at St Mary's Training College, a Catholic Institution in Apowa near Takoradi.

On his return to Southern Rhodesia in 1960, Mr Mugabe joined the National Democratic Party and was chosen Secretary for Information and Publicity at its inaugural congress held in October 1960. He moved quickly in his political standing in the nationalist movement, and when the NDP was proscribed in 1961 and the Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU) was formed, he was, whilst continuing with his previous post as Information and Publicity Secretary, also made acting Secretary-General until the banning of ZAPU in September 1962.

In 1963 he was one of those who opposed the continued leadership of Joshua Nkomo and became a founder member and Secretary-General of the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU).

Mr Mugabe was first imprisoned in December 1963 until March 1964, and then in August 1964 until December 1974, thus serving a period of no less than ten and a half years for his political opposition to colonial rule.

His academic interest continued to show itself even in prison as he obtained the Bachelor of Administration degree in 1969 with the University of South Africa and the Bachelor of Laws (1969) and Master of Laws (1972) degree with the University of London. A more recent acquisition was the M.Sc (Economics) degree which he completed in May 1985 with the University of London.

When Mr Mugabe was released from detention in December 1974, he soon left the country in April 1975 to lead the liberation struggle from Mozambique, after the Central Committee of ZANU had appointed him to assume the mantle of leading the external wing of the Party following the death of Herbert Chitepo.

University of Fort Hare
Together in Excellence

Mr Mugabe was responsible for reorganising and reactivating the armed struggle in Mozambique where the Party and its military wing, the Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army (ZANLA), had established itself. When an alliance was formed between ZANU and ZAPU to constitute a common front for the 1976 Geneva Constitutional Conference and coordinate the various aspects of the struggle, as co-leader of the established Patriotic Front, Mr Mugabe led the ZANU team to the abortive talks. Mr Mugabe's position as leader of ZANU and Commander-in-chief of ZANLA was formalised with his election as president of ZANU at the historic ZANU Congress at Chimoio, Mozambique, in 1977.

In 1979, he led the ZANU delegation to the Lancaster House Conference in London and returned to Zimbabwe on the 27th of January, 1980, to lead and supervise his party's election campaign. In the general elections held in February of that year, ZANU won 57 of the 80 common roll seats in the House of Assembly and thus formed the first government of the newly independent state. His quest for national unity and reconciliation impelled him to form a Government of national unity in which ZAPU (Zimbabwe African People's Union) was represented by five ministers and the white community by two.

Mr Mugabe ensured from the very beginning of its independence that Zimbabwe was a member of the United Nations, and its associated bodies, a member of the Commonwealth, of the Non-Aligned Movement, of the African, Caribbean and Pacific group of states (ACP) in its association with the European Economic Community, of the Organisation of African Unity. In September 1986, Harare hosted the Eighth summit of the Non-Aligned Movement at which President Mugabe was elected Chairman of the Movement for the next three years during which he worked assiduously to ensure the implementation of both the political and economic resolutions passed by the Summit of this important movement of which 101 countries are members.

In recognition of his personal achievement and merit, and for his struggle for freedom, justice and peace, Mr Mugabe has been awarded the following honorary doctoral degrees (in addition to the seven university degrees he already holds) by the following universities:

UNIVERSITY	COUNTRY	TITLE OF AWARD	YEAR OF AWARD
Abmdou Bello	Nigeria University of Fort Hare Together in Excellence	Hon LLD	December 1980
Morehouse College	Atlanta Georgia, USA	Hon LLD	September 1983
University of Zimbabwe	Zimbabwe	Hon LLD	May 1984

University of Moscow	U.S.S.R	Hon LLD	December 1986
Michigan State University	Michigan, USA	Hon LLD	September 1991
University of Mauritius	Mauritius	Hon Doc. Civil Laws	May 1991

Robert Gabriel Mugabe was inaugurated on 31st December 1987 as First Executive President of the Republic of Zimbabwe.

Ever conscious of the historical links between ZANU (PF) and PF ZAPU, President Mugabe's long standing desire to unite the nation, bring an end to insecurity in Southern Zimbabwe and usher in political stability, law and order, was realised when, on 22 December 1987, he signed the Unity Accord with PF ZAPU leader Dr Joshua Nkomo.

On September 15 1988, President Mugabe received from the US-based Hunger Project, the African Prize for Leadership for the Sustainable End of Hunger. This emanated from distinct recognition of Mr Mugabe's pragmatic policies regarding agriculture and the successes scored in the battle against hunger, starvation, malnutrition and poverty, which has earned Zimbabwe (in recognition of its food self-sufficiency) the term, "the bread basket of the region". President Mugabe then set up an agricultural National Scholarship Fund with the US $100 000 prize money he received.

On April 2, 1990, President Mugabe was sworn in for a 6 year term as the first directly elected President of Zimbabwe and again led ZANU (PF) to a third landslide victory since Independence, in the 1990 general elections. In October 1991, Zimbabwe hosted the Commonwealth Summit, another sign of international recognition and confidence in the able leadership of Mr Mugabe, who assumed the post of Chairman for CHOGM for the next 2 years. He also assumed chairmanship of the Frontline States in March 1992.

DISSERTATION: "The Fire/Grazing interaction on Dohne Sourveld".

Supervisor: Professor Jock E Danckwerts, PhD (Natal)

ABSTRACT:

Controversy exists around the interaction of fire and grazing in the humid grasslands of Southern Africa.

This thesis tests the following hypotheses:

1. Continuous grazing with sheep (stocked at a realistic stocking rate for the veld type), applied immediately after annual burning in spring, is harmful to plant vigour and species composition.
2. The ill-effects of early grazing after fire are not readily quantifiable in the short term.
3. Early grazing of burnt veld with sheep (at a conventionally acceptable stocking rate) results in better animal performance per head than that on unburnt veld, at least in the short term.

These were addressed using sheep in a grazing trial covering c. 15 ha at Dohne Research Station, Stutterheim, South Africa (27°30'E 23°35'S). Treatments were combinations of early vs late grazing, annual vs biennial burning and continuous vs rotational grazing. Treatment combinations were replicated twice and arranged in a split-split-plot design. The trial has run for seven years so far.

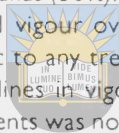

Animal performance (weight gain over the season) and plant performance (vigour, species composition, plant density and basal cover) were monitored for an c. 240 day grazing period from September to May each year. A companion project on the same site, recorded soil loss and run off.

Early grazing after burning resulted in superior animal performance (180%) over the late grazing treatments. The animal performance from the early grazed treatments declined over the seven year period while that from the late graze group remained relatively constant. There is an economic incentive for graziers to burn rangeland and graze it immediately (≤ 14 days) after the fire.

Species composition moved from a Tristachya leucothrix dominated state to a Themeda triandra dominated state in all treatments. Tristachya leucothrix and Andropogon appendiculatus decreased in abundance, T. triandra increased and Eragrostis plana, E. curvula, Elionurus muticus and Sporobolus africanus remained relatively constant. These changes were not attributable to any particular treatment. Average basal cover on the site changed from c. 17% in 1987 to c. 14% in 1992. The density of Senecio retrorsus, a toxic geophyte, was not affected by any particular treatment but increased on all plots from 56 400 plants ha^{-1} in 1988 to 80 400 plants ha^{-1} in 1993. The largest increase took place between 1990 and 1993 and was attributed to wet conditions at the start of the 1993 season.

A decline in vigour (leaf extension) from 1987 to 1990 was recorded for T. triandra (32%), T. leucothrix (26%) and S. africanus (58%). These are preferred species, but the non-preferred E. muticus increased vigour over the same period by 42%. These changes were not ($P > 0.05$) specific to any treatment but the annually burnt treatments had marginally greater declines in vigour. Despite these changes the dry matter production from all treatments was not different ($P > 0.05$) in 1994 when the site produced a mean of 3 220 kg ha^{-1} .

Run off and soil loss were increased by annual burning and early grazing, however the most severe treatment (ie early continuous grazing with annual burning) lost $< 2 t ha^{-1} a^{-1}$ over the five years of that study. The annual rates of soil loss and runoff have increased with time.

Based on this project early grazing of burnt range, with mixed herbivores (cattle and sheep) and incorporating periodic season long rests (2-4 yearly), is both biologically acceptable and economically expedient.
