HONORARY DOCTORATE DEGREE

CITATION: Rev. Dr. Simon Gqubule (Doctor of Theology) (Honorius Causa)

PROFILE

Dr Simon Gqubule was a student under the Rev. Seth Mokitimi, the first Black President of the Methodist Church of Southern Africa, at the Healdtown Missionary Institution, near Fort Beaufort, in the Eastern Cape during the years 1943-49. He matriculated there in 1947 and qualified as a Teacher at the same institution.

After graduating at Fort Hare, Geneva, London and Edinburgh, he was the first African student to qualify for the Ph.D. degree at Rhodes University. In 1995, he was awarded an honorary Doctorate in Divinity (D.D) by Rhodes University and in 2004 was awarded an honorary Doctorate in Theology (D.Th) by the University of South Africa.

In 1960 he married Miriam "Jay" Mazibuko. They have a son and two daughters.

In 1961- 62 he taught New Testament and Systematic Theology at the Lovedale United Theological School (LUTS) and Fort Hare. During this period he was part of the team that prepared for the establishment of the Federal Theological Seminary which was established at Alice in 1963. For the first four years, he was the only black member of the teaching staff of the Seminary. He taught Greek, New Testament and Systematic Theology.

In 1980 he was Visiting Professor of New Testament at the Toronto University School of Theology, in Canada. In 1990, he was a Visiting Lecturer in Greek and New Testament at Wesley College, Bristol, England.

He served as President of the Seminary and also as Principal of John Wesley College at the Seminary for seventeen years. His term as Principal of John Wesley College spanned the expropriation of the Seminary from Alice in November, 1974, the brief sojourn of the Seminary at Umtata and the move of the Seminary to Edendale, near Pietermaritzburg, Natal.

As President of the Seminary, he was called upon to hold the troubled community together at the Edendale Lay Ecumenical Centre, Pietermaritzburg to negotiate with the government for a site for the Seminary, to travel widely at home and overseas in search of funds and to oversee the building of the New Seminary, at Imbali, Pietermaritzburg. He left the Seminary at the end of 1991 after 31 years as Theological Teacher. He had the following appointments:

1980-87: Vice-President of the South African Council of Churches;

1980-87: Vice-President of the S.A. Institute of Race Relations;

1983-87: President of the Natal Midlands Division of the United Democratic Front; and 1988-89: was banned and restricted to the Pietermaritzburg magisterial district and placed under house arrest.

In 1981-82, he was President of the Methodist Church of Southern Africa. He moved onto the Mount Coke Mission at the beginning of 1992, where he served as Superintendent Minister of the Mount Coke Circuit and Bishop of the Queenstown

District of the Methodist Church of Southern Africa until he retired at the end of 1998. He retired to his home town of Uitenhage and lives at No: 10 Gqubule Street (which was named after him), Kwa-Nobuhle, Uitenhage.

At the beginning of the year 2000 he was called upon to minister to the P.E. Mission Cluster, which consisted of five societies including Kwa-Magxaki. Thus began his association with the Kwa-Magxaki community. During this period he was involved with fund-raising for the building of the Church which was named after him.

In addition he has been involved with various educational projects including the Ilitha Lemfundo Educational Enhancement Project which runs Saturday Classes for Grade 12 learners from several Uitenhage schools.

From 2000 he has been President of the Convocation of Rhodes University.

DOCTORAL DEGREE

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (EDUCATION)

NYEMBEZI Nceba

PROFILE

Nceba Nyembezi was born in Butterworth, Eastern Cape. He holds a College Higher Education Diploma; B.Tech in Educational Management; Honours in Educational Psychology and Master of Education. In 2012 he enrolled for a Ph.D. in Education.

Underpinned by the United Theory of Acceptance and Use of Technology the study focused on the effect of performance expectancy on the learners' intention to adopt and use Internet services. A quantitative approach based on the positivist paradigm was used to quantify the relationships among various factors that contribute to internet services adoption and use.

The results show that of the four determinants from Unified Theory of Acceptance and Use of Technology (UTAUT), performance expectancy was the strongest predictor of intention to adopt internet services. Large positive and significant correlations were found among performance expectancy and effort expectancy variables towards the intention to use internet services.

The study concluded that the UTAUT model proved to be an easy to use tool that schools can implement as one way to better understand the effect of performance expectancy; effort expectancy; social influence and other confounding variables on behavioural intention.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (ENGLISH AND COMPARATIVE LITERATURE)

KIRTON-ELS Teneille

PROFILE

Teneille Kirton-Els, a lecturer in the English department on the East London campus, graduated with her MA degree in 2010; thereafter, she registered for her D. Litt with the University of Fort Hare in 2011 under the supervision of Dr. Jabulani Mkhize.

The goal of the dissertation was to provide a psycho-analytic literary perspective on the three published novels of K. Sello Duiker. The dissertation was premised on the argument that Duiker's novels not only invites such a reading but this approach also provides one's understanding of this author and his avowed intention in writing these texts, an understanding of the world that contributed to the creation of his texts as well as his invaluable contribution to South African literature generally and the post-apartheid narrative in particular.

One of the examiners commented that "Ms Teneille Kirton-Els must be commended for researching an author who has not yet received the critical attention he deserves. In this she has shown considerable enterprise and initiative." Another examiner proffered: "Since there are hardly any essays on Duiker so far, let alone books, this study is path-breaking and will open up new ground."

SOLANI Noel Lungele Zwelidumile

PROFILE

Noel LZ Solani was born to his parents, Mrs Minah Nowinile Solani and her husband, Reverend Theunis Ntoninji Solani in Upington. He matriculated in Burgersdorp and then attended UWC, where he obtained his MA (History) degree in 2000. He subsequently worked for the National Department of Education and then at the Nelson Mandela Museum, where his interests in issues of politics, memory and representation continued.

His important, wide-ranging and detailed thesis examines the public representations of the liberation struggle in the post-apartheid era. The thesis is titled: The Auto/biography of the Liberation Struggle and Public Representation of its Memory and Heritage:

DOCTORAL DEGREES

1994-2008. The thesis makes two important contributions. The first is his argument around the 'auto/biography of the ANC liberation struggle'. The second is that this is achieved from 'within' a critical nationalist approach, as opposed to the rather more typical critique of nationalism approach.

Noel marks his gratitude to his supervisor and UFH, to his family and especially to his son, Mvunyelwa Mvuyelwa Solani.

SIBANDA Octavia

PROFILE

Octavia Sibanda was born in Zimbabwe. She did her Honours degree at the University of Zimbabwe before moving to University of Fort Hare to pursue a Master's degree in Social Policy and Development Studies. She joined Fort Hare Institute of Social and Economic Research (FHISER) in 2009 to pursue a Doctor of Philosophy in Social Science, specialising in Social Anthropology. She also worked as a Researcher for the institute.

Her PhD thesis which focused on White poverty in post-apartheid South Africa began at a time of global and countrywide recession and within the dominant discourse that portrayed White poverty as non-existent. Through the use of anthropological methodology, Sibanda, 'reversed the gaze' in her inquiry. She documented the daily struggles and the stigma endured by poor Whites within the context where neoliberal forces have narrowed opportunities to access the formal economy.

Sibanda is a member of Anthropology Southern Africa Association and has served in the Executive committee of the association. She has presented papers at various national conferences and has published journal articles.

WARIKANDWA Tapiwa Victor

PROFILE

Tapiwa Victor Warikandwa was born in Chiredzi, Zimbabwe, in 1980. He studied at the University of Fort Hare, and completed the LLB degree in 2005. In 2006, he proceeded to work for the Ministry of Public Service Labour and Social Welfare as a legal officer and later as legal advisor. He completed the research Master of Laws (LLM) degree at Fort Hare in 2010 and in 2011 registered for the Doctor of Laws degree.

Tapiwa's doctoral study was prosecuted between 2011 and 2012. Its main objective was to undertake a contemporary legal and policy evaluation of the possibilities and challenges of establishing a trade and labour rights linkage in the multilateral regulatory framework of the World Trade Organisation (WTO).

The main finding was that the WTO has a legal obligation to protect core labour standards which in turn makes it both legal and legitimate to predicate access to global markets upon substantial compliance with those labour standards. However, the study also found that political will and commitment are essential for the effective implementation of any measures proposed in the context of the trade-labour rights linkage debate in the WTO.

In late 2012, Tapiwa was awarded a Post-Doctoral fellowship in the course of which he has produced a number of papers for publication in peer reviewed journals and for presentation at national and international conferences.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (INFORMATION SYSTEMS)

CILLIERS Liezel

PROFILE

Liezel Cilliers has, to her credit, the following qualifications: a BSc Physiotherapy degree from the University of Stellenbosch (2002); a Masters in Public Health from the University of the Western Cape (2006); an Honours (2009) and a Masters in Information Systems from the University of Fort Hare (2010).

Liezel registered for her DPhil in Information Systems in 2011. Her doctoral thesis focused on the problems that urbanisation has created for local government with specific reference to public safety. Using a mixed method research design, the study developed a model that can be used to implement a public safety, participatory crowdsourcing (PSPC) smart city initiative in a developing city such as East London.

The main findings of the study included the following three factors that must be considered in order to implement a smart city in a developing country: the Trust of the citizen in the participatory crowdsourcing system, the Security of the system as well as the Usability of the system. One of the external examiners remarked that the thesis "... is significantly contributing to the forefront knowledge in the discipline and to the key needs of the society...". Liezel has presented research articles based on this thesis in both local and international conferences.

NDIEGE Joshua

PROFILE

Joshua was born in Homa Bay County in Kenya. He attended primary school at God-Bura and Asumbi and his high school at Mbita Boys in Mbita County, Kenya. He received his Bachelor degree in Commerce in 2001 and a Master degree in e-Commerce in 2003, both from Agra University in India.

In October 2004 Joshua was employed as a lecturer in the department of Information Systems & Computing at University of Eastern Africa, Baraton Kenya. He currently holds the position of senior lecturer and head of department. In 2010 Joshua enrolled for his second master degree, a Master of Commerce in Information Systems at University of Fort Hare. On completing the program in 2011 he registered for a DPhil in Information Systems. His doctoral thesis entitled: "Absorptive Capacity and Information Technology Adoption Strategies in Kenyan SMEs" explored how Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs) can build strong Absorptive Capacities (AC) and exploit these in order to improve their Information Technology adoption processes through a model of AC.

From the results of this study an Information Technology Adoption Strategy Improvement Model (ITASIM) was developed to assist SMEs improve their IT adoption strategies. Additionally, in order to assist in the effective implementation of ITASIM, implementation guidelines were developed. The proposed model helps SMEs to overcome some of the perennial challenges that have characterized their IT adoption strategies. From this study, two articles have already been published in peer review journals and a third one is currently under review.

She obtained her ND: Information Technology at Border Technikon in 1994. In 1998 she enrolled for a BTech: Information Technology at TSA after obtaining few modules she registered with PE-Tech where she obtained her qualification in 2001.

She graduated her MTech: Information Technology with the NMMU in 2009. She started working in the institution of higher learning immediately after her junior qualification. She served as an active member for the Higher Education Information and Communication Technology Association (HEICTA) since 2009.

In 2011 she enrolled for her PhD in the IS department at UFH, research title "Model for IT Governance to Improve Information Technology Alignment of Multi-Campuses in South African Institution of Higher Learning". Qualitative research techniques were used during the research process. The proposed model can be used as guiding tool in establishing new IT Governance structures and also modify and improve the existing IT Governance structure of different institutions of higher learning.

CONVOCATION MESSAGE

From the Desk of the Convocation President: Max K Makhubalo

Welcome to 2014 Graduands and Convocation Members

This is indeed a momentous period in our nation's history, twenty years of democracy, passing on of former president and convocation member Nelson Mandel (Isithwalandwe) and preparations of our Centenary gaining momentum with all alumni!

Please accept my personal warm welcome to your Convocation membership which we challenge you to be an active participant. As they say "Your University needs you now more than ever".

As we cannot claim monopoly to the emotional title of the home of the majority of Black intellectuals, we need to fight for our market/ wallet share of ex-students' active participation in the affairs of their Alma Mater. Fort Hare graduates continue to occupy prominent leadership positions in corporate and public life on the African continent. We indeed have a good story to share with the continent.
