CURRICULUM VITAE

Edward John Bassett Bishop

Mr Edward John Basset Bishop was born in Beaufort West in 1928 and matriculated at the Grey High School, Port Elizabeth in 1945.

In 1949 he obtained a B Sc Agric (Animal Science) Degree at the University of Pretoria and a Master's Degree in Animal Science at the University of Stellenbosch in 1957.

John Bishop worked in the Department of Agricultural Technical Services at the Dohne Research Institute as an Animal Husbandry Research Officer for a period of twenty-one years. During this period he was also Officer-in-charge of the Bathurst Research Station.

While at the Dohne Research Institute he was sent to the Grootfontein College of Agriculture where he lectured to students on specific Animal Science Subjects. In 1969 he was seconded to Angola by the South African Government to conduct a training course for farmers.

He has carried out a number of practical research projects, the most significant of which was his research into the effect of nutrition on the fertility of the beef cow some twenty years ago and which is still recognised by animal science students as a classical work in this field. He has thirty six publications to his credit, many of which have received recognition overseas.

Mr Bishop came to the University of Fort Hare as a senior lecturer in the Department of Animal Science in 1971. Since then he has successfully completed several research projects and published his findings. In an extramural capacity he has acted as a consultant to the Ciskei National Development Corporation and given lectures at special courses for farmers offered by Rhodes University.

His D Sc thesis on the wastage and other production factors in dairy herds has been highly commended by both examiners and should prove to be a much used reference by specialists in the field of Animal Science.
