DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN EDUCATION

MAVUSO Mzuyanda Percival

PROFILE

Mzuyanda Percival Mavuso was born in 1970 in Tsomo, Eastern Cape. He completed his secondary education in 1989. He did his tertiary education at Bensonvale College of Education where he graduated with a Senior Primary Teachers' Diploma in 1993. Thereafter he enrolled at the University of Fort Hare and obtained the following qualifications: Bachelor of Arts in 2000; Bachelor of Honours (History) in 2004; Bachelor of Education (Honours) in 2007; and Master of Education in 2010. In 2011 he registered for PhD in Education at the University of Fort Hare

His doctoral thesis focused on the education district office support for teaching and learning in schools. The main conclusions were, first that although the district officials' visits to schools were described as support, they exhibited the trappings of technicism of inspection; supervision and control; and appeared to neglect the developmental aspects implied in the notion of support. Second, the conception and practice of support visits by district officials were characterised by tension between support and control. One examiner commented that "...it is hoped that the research will result in articles that will be taken seriously by relevant people..."

PORTEUS Kimberley

PROFILE

Born in the US, and motivated by a family of teachers, Kimberley Porteus was inspired by the struggle for democracy in South Africa in her undergraduate years. She came to South Africa in 1990, working with COSATU through the first democratic elections. Completing her Masters in Public Health at Wits University, she nevertheless focused her work on the transformation of the public education system.

In 2004, she was appointed Executive Director, Nelson Mandela Institute for Education and Rural Development at UFH. The NMI largely developed the founding concepts and pedagogical architecture of the innovative course known as Life, Knowledge, Action.

Her thesis explored the pedagogical experiences of the 2010 cohort of LKA students. It highlights the potential for critical activity-oriented pedagogy to expand the learning activity of first-year students, observable through modest improvements in student academic performance. One examiner commented that the thesis was 'robust', 'refreshingly critical and comprehensive', making 'a significant contribution to knowledge in the area...'

Kimberley is the mother of Mila, a source of her inspiration.

PYLMAN Johannes Nicholas

PROFILE

Born in Lady Grey, Johannes, Nicholas Pylman was educated at the Lady Grey Primary School and Maria Louw High School in Queenstown. He holds a Primary Certificate and Primary Diploma in Education from the then Southern Cape Training College in Oudtshoorn. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from UNISA and Bachelor of Education and Masters of Education from Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University, Port Elizabeth. In 2010 he registered for a PhD in Education at the University of Fort Hare.

Nicholas's work explored the re-invention of the Integrated Quality Management System towards a culture of continuous improvement in primary schools. The thrust of the study was to understand how IQMS as an integrated quality management system incorporates the three different policies and contributes towards a culture for continuous improvement in schools. The study concluded that IQMS is understood and practised as an external intervention. It also concluded that the external and internal quality assurance practices seemed to have been subsumed under managerial imperatives of compliance and accountability. All external examiners agreed that the thesis is exceptionally good and at the very front in terms of applying cutting edge theories to analyse policies such as IQMS. One examiner acknowledged that this thesis "... is at the heart of school improvement and performance, a concern not only for RSA, but that also touches many an education system in the region and beyond". Mr Pylman is a lecturer and co-coordinator of B. Ed (Hons) in the Faculty of Education.

SIBANDA Bonani

PROFILE

Bonani Sibanda was born in Zimbabwe and grew up in Bulawayo Metropolitan Province. She holds the following educational qualifications; a Bachelor of Science and Computers degree from the University of Jose Varona in Cuba (1996); a Masters in Education degree from Jose de la Luz University in Cuba (2003).

Bonani registered for a PhD in Education programme at the University of Fort Hare in 2009. Her research focused on the problem of Mathematics underachievement. The study drew from Curriculum and Mathematics education discourses to interrogate data on educators and the subject advisors' perceptions, as well as data from Mathematics National Curriculum Statement (NCS) programme, pace setters, and guidelines' documents. The NCS design and its bearing on underachievement in Mathematics were studied using an interpretive framework and a case study design. The triangulated data obtained from educators, subject advisors and documents were the units of analyses.

The findings of the study revealed that Mathematics underachievement should be attributed in part to the NCS design aspects such as arrangement, organising philosophy, scope, sequencing, pacing, et cetera. The study found superficiality in scope, educators and subject advisors' lack of understanding of the NCS arrangement and philosophy, and lack of time for coverage and pacing to be contributing to learners' underachievement in Mathematics. External examiners acknowledged that the study is an important contribution in Mathematics education. One external examiner remarked that the "...work is publishable..."

VAN DER WALT Maria Magdalena

PROFILE

Maria Magdalena van der Walt was born in 1954 in Bloemfontein. She started her career education in the Free State, before she embarked on further study and attained a Diploma in Remedial Education from UNISA. Shortly after, she was awarded two merit awards for excellence in classroom and remedial teaching. In 1996 she graduated with a Master's Degree of the University of Southern Queensland, Toowoomba, Australia. In 2008 she registered for a PhD in Education at the University of Fort Hare.

Maria's study explored external quality assurance in South African Higher Education as a tool towards continuous improvement. The aim was to understand how the intervention of an external body such as the HEQC promoted internal quality assurance practices towards continuous improvement. The study concluded that the external review process generated the potential for continuous improvement. However, for gains made on quality consciousness and practices to be sustainable, they must go hand in hand with the creation of systems and structures that are designed to assure quality. One examiner commented that the thesis shows "...good scholarship..."

Mrs van der Walt is currently senior lecturer with responsibilities for co-ordinating quality assurance in the Faculty of Education.

DOCTOR OF LAWS

GWARINDA Tafara Albert

PROFILE

Tafara was born in Gweru, Zimbabwe, where he completed his primary and secondary education. He obtained Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws from the University of Fort Hare in 2006 and 2009 respectively. He registered for Doctor of Laws in 2009 with the title 'The impact of the common law and legislation on African indigenous laws of marriage in Zimbabwe and South Africa.'

The thesis examined the phenomenon of dual and plural systems of law in Zimbabwe and South Africa, with particular focus on the laws relating to the institution of African marriages and how these have evolved in their interaction with the common law based civil marriage. The candidate utilized an anthropological approach to trace legal developments in the area, exploring how society, legislation and different forms of State interventions deal with African indigenous law. The thesis' main finding is that legislation was the primary means by which western principles of law were attached to customary law which in turn lost its intended purpose. Another significant finding is that constitutionalism and human rights have hardly permeated the practice of African indigenous laws of marriage in the countries studied.

The thesis recommends, among others, that customary law and the common law be harmonized so as to bridge the gap between the two systems of law as they relate to marriage. The recommendations provide a useful reference tool to various stakeholders as they endeavour to determine the future of the African marriage in a contemporary context.
